SIXTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL REPORT
OF THE
ASSOCIATION FOR THE CARE OF COLORED ORPHANS

Another year has been added to the Shelter's days of usefulness. One unmarked by any great event, save steady progress.

We feel that with our very efficient helpers, we are slowly working toward a management of household and school, by which, with all possible economy of time, strength and money, we may obtain best results.

We have a great problem to wrestle with, this caring for and training of the homeless, but as we look back over the progress of years and remember the help and interest of our friends, we take fresh courage to press on toward the high ideal for which we try to keep a single eye.

We have ninety-one children under our supervision. Nineteen are out under indenture, three girls and sixteen boys. One boy satisfactorily completed his term of indenture this year.

Two girls are out at service on wages, a boy and a girl are in families under special arrangements, and sixty-six are in the Shelter. Of these twenty-six are under seven years of age.

Fifteen children were admitted to the home during the year, and two returned to their mother, who is now able to provide for them.

Two have been placed in the hospital for treatment.

We feel that one of the most important duties performed by our managers is that of a committee who visit indentured wards. This keeps us in touch with employers, as well as with children.

The latter look forward with much pleasure to the visits of those interested in their welfare, and seem greatly disappointed if they do not come at the usual time.

And the managers feel rewarded for their efforts in traveling several hundred miles annually, in the evidently increased desire on the children's part to do what is right.

In the nursery are the very little ones to whom a picture or a new toy gives genuine delight. But the keenest pleasure comes with the appearance of a "lady." How the bright eyes sparkle when her smile and voice assure them she is kind, and they may ask to see her watch, and even stroke her soft muff!

When some four years old, they are promoted to the kindergarten. Such active brains and bodies must be guided to something more than play, or, at least, to systematic and developing play. The teacher's work is not the easiest, for she cannot be everywhere at once, but if it be only in bright smiles, her reward is great.

In the higher school department are the older children, except the girls who are more than fifteen years of age. The latter are being trained in the practical work of the house, that they may know how to make some refined home comfortable.

Careful attention is given to physical training. That the boys and girls enjoy it, is proved by a glance at their bright eyes, their good positions, and their evident desire to do, and attention is seldom lacking. A well-trained, well-controlled body is a comfort and a source of power. We are trying to give it to every child in our care.

A sewing class is a part of the weekly program, and a part requiring no little care and patience. The work is systematic and careful, and, though little fingers are slowly trained, we are encouraged by much improvement and some excellent results.

Regular training in the truth, as the Bible tells it, and its application to every-day need is given each first-day, and texts are regularly memorized. The children's earnest attention and clear recollection of much that is told them encourage us to feel that some seed is sown in good ground.

When suitable the children are taken to the West Philadelphia Friends' Meeting on first-day mornings. Our kind friend, Comly B. Shoemaker, sits with the boys. This we appreciate extremely, and the boys, in their measure, as much as we.

Summer time brings less school and more outdoors and play. Long bright afternoons and evenings are spent on the lawn, and beside the immediate result of increased happiness has been noticed the continued good health that open-air exercise always brings.

Many of the children have their own garden-plots in which onions, peas and tomatoes flourish, and flowers blossom gaily. It is very well to learn how to plant seeds and to take care of the seedlings; but when by slow degrees we discover that we must not pull up each others' plants, when we feel the difference between teum and meum, then a good lesson has been learned indeed.

Among the great pleasures of the summer are the outings that kind friends enable the children to take. During the past summer they were taken to the Zoo by special trolley car and allowed to go in free. The babies saw the wonderful sights from an express-wagon, and excitement and pleasure ran high.

At the invitation of Joseph L. Bailey, twenty-one children visited his farm, at Pine Iron Works. And there sixteen of them, for the first time in their lives, saw a real, live pig.

Several of the older children spent a part of a day at the home of one of our managers, and their interest in house and garden proved that they noticed what is good and appreciated it.

Excursions were made to George's Hill and Bartram's Gardens, and short walks gave exercise and fresh air, so much needed and enjoyed.

One child, who was ill and gained but slowly, spent two weeks at the Children's Seashore Home, Atlantic City.

There has been very little illness during the past year. The new Infirmary has made the caring for the few cases much easier than of old, and we have the comforting knowledge that when contagious diseases do come, if they must, we are ready for them. But the Infirmary is not yet paid for. Our friends have been very generous, and we appreciate their kindness. Will they not remember us still? And will they not interest others in the work that we humbly hope is done in His name, for His little ones?

In order to decrease expenses, the managers have been helping the seamstress with the sewing. The children do all the darning and much of the mending. The stockings alone are a large item with them, but even the boys can darn well.

It was with genuine regret that we accepted the resignation of our matron, Anna S. Bailey, in the seventh month. Her services were very valuable and inspiring to both officers and children. Her place is very acceptably filled by Susan E. Williams.

We feel that our privilege to care for and help these little brothers and sisters is great. The entrusting of good is always holy. And we know that just as the privilege is great, so is the responsibility. That wisdom may be given us to act well is our earnest desire. We have undertaken not only to feed and clothe these children, but to train them physically, mentally and spiritually. Their lives mean just as much to them as ours do to us. They mean just as much to the All-Father, and must we not, we who have been more happily placed, through no doing of our own, help them to make their lives the very best? Let us give them sunshine and health, all we can; and let us implant in them as much as we are able a readiness to fill in the best way the positions into which they will probably be called. Let us make them happy now, and withal give them the knowledge of the way to be happy when they leave us. That is a knowledge of what an honest, industrious, God-fearing life is, and an earnest desire to live it.

With sincere appreciation we extend our thanks to the University Hospital, and the Orthopedic Hospital for valuable assistance in special cases, and to the Germantown Employment Society for its aid.

The Shelter is principally designed for colored children who are entire orphans ; but the Association will admit, as objects of their care, children whose parents are unable to provide for them or neglect to do so.

RULES.

No. 1—No child under the age of two years, or over seven, or evidently defective in mental faculties, or having a material deformity of body, shall be received, except by special permission granted by the Association.

No. 2—All applications, either for children to be indentured, or for their admission to the Shelter, must be made to a member of the Committee on Admission.

No. 3—The mothers and friends of the children may visit them on the last Sixth-day of each month, except the three winter months.

ANNUAL REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO VISIT
INDENTURED WARDS, 1902

Of the twenty-two children, sixteen boys and six girls, visited by the committee during the year, four boys are in the House of Refuge, two girls in homes receiving wages, sixteen are indentured; of the latter number, thirteen are reported as attending first-day school and church, eight go to week-day school, two are taught at home, and one of school age not taught at all. Eleven are satisfactory, six are generally satisfactory, and one quite unsatisfactory. One came of age during the year, well recommended by his employer.

The Committee traveled over 761 miles, at a cost to the Institution of $38.00.

On behalf of the Committee,
LYDIA E. PENNOCK,
Chairman.
